

Instructions from Graphic Materials (1982, with updates):

0D. Levels of description

The elements of description provided in this manual constitute a maximum set of information. There are three recommended levels of description. For its graphic collections, an institution may choose only the first level, the first and second, or all three levels, based on the purpose of the catalog or catalogs for which the record is constructed. Include this minimum set of elements for all material cataloged at the chosen level when the elements are applicable to what is being described and when, in the case of optional additions, the institution has chosen to include an optional element. Consult individual rules for the content of the elements to be included.

The first two levels are given below in schematic illustrations with the prescribed punctuation, spacing, and capitalization (see also Example 1).
